FOUR ARMIES PLOW INTO GERMANY

NAGOYA AREA IS HAMMERED IN B-29 RAID

DEMOLITION BOMBS WRECK HUGE JAP ENGINE PLANT

BY RAY CRONIN

Associated Press War Editor

The greatest Superfortress demolition blow of the Pacific war on Japan's biggest airplane engine plant and new attacks in Nippon waters by the rampaging Yank fleet were officially reported late Saturday.

In their closest surface attack to the Japanese mainland units of the Pacific fleet used their big guns against coastal targets in the Ryukyus, immediately southwest of Nippon proper.

The invasion-littered Japanese people were ordered by the head of the government to form a volunteer army embracing the entire populace.

Steady Gains On Luzon

In the Philippines Yank doughboys gained on all Luzon fronts. Philippine-based bombers blasted a major airfield and naval base on Formosa. Many Japanese planes were destroyed or damaged.

Targets of the navy guns and naval airmen in the Ryukyus included aircraft, shipping and airfields. The guns of fast battleships roared against installations along the coasts of Okinawa, Ie Shima and Minami Daito Shima.

The night flying B-29s, estimated at 225, roared in over the Mitsubishi plant on Nagoya's outskirts and unloaded demolition bombs at low level. It was the fifth attack on the plant.

Tokyo said the continued carrier attacks in the strategic Ryukyu chain, between Japan proper and Formosa, involved 230 Yank naval planes which hit Okinawa Friday and blasted Okinawa and Miyako for eight hours Saturday.

Heavy Losses Claimed

Okinawa is one of Japan's most important air and naval bases on the southern flank of the home land.

Tokyo made the unconfirmed claim that 18,000 American naval officers and men were lost during the recent carrier task force plane strikes against Japan and the elusive Nippon navy in the inland sea.

Another unsubstantiated Japanese claim was that four or six Yank carriers were sunk or damaged by Nippon planes March 11 off Ulithi, western Carolines. Radio Tokyo named the carriers Randolph and Cowpens as among those attacked.

At his Guam headquarters Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz disclosed loss of the escort carrier Bismarck Sea off Iwo Jima February 21. The flattop was a victim of Japanese planes and internal explosions. Most of those aboard the ill-fated carrier were saved.

Japanese Premier Kuniaki Koiso said the "tide of this critical war situation" could be turned only "by mustering the people's total energies." He added that those not actually bearing arms would make weapons, produce food and engage in many other war tasks.

Demoralized Japanese troops in central Burma met death by the hundreds as British armored forces hunted them down south of Mandalay. Field dispatches said 1,000 Nipponese were killed in 48 hours. British tanks smashed two roadblocks north of Meiktila and inflicted heavy losses on the Japanese. The large number of Nippon surrenders indicated the enemy's morale was sagging in the Myingyan - Meiktila - Mandalay trap.

This Is No Time To Let Up Steam, America Is Told

(By The Associated Press)

Washington, Mar. 24 (AP)—A grim resolve to flatten Japan mingled tonight with Washington's satisfaction over new prospects of early victory in Europe. All over this war-jammed capital, from the Pentagon to Capitol Hill, ran the refrain: This is no time to let up steam.

A summary of what the people may expect, compiled by Associated Press reporters as Allied troops surged across the Rhine, added up like this:

(1) Some of the soldiers now fighting in Europe will come home to stay, when that job is done. But the figure will not be substantial and will not include men in the service forces or air forces.

(2) The bulk of the Army and all Navy people will be needed against Japan.

(3) The War Production Board has no intention of relaxing munitions output. War workers will still be needed by the millions, war bonds by the billions.

(4) Drafting will slack off, but won't end.

(5) The administration will continue pressing for manpower controls, including a nurses draft.

(6) Demands will be raised—and resisted—for tax reductions.

(7) Some minor home front restrictions probably will be lifted.

War Mobilizer Byrnes said so this week in restating his call for a midnight entertainment curfew. But price controls and rationing will continue through the war against Japan and perhaps longer.

(8) Wage controls, as they now stand, will be fought more vigorously than ever by organized labor.

(9) There should be a small and gradual return to production of a lot of things civilians have been doing without for months or years.

(10) The nation's foreign policy will stress international collaboration. Peace in Europe undoubtedly will test foreign relations to the utmost.

At the state department, the opening of the piggy bank across Germany posed such questions as these:

(1) Would it mean the end of the war in Europe before the San Francisco Security Conference set for April 25?

(2) Would it further complicate relations with Spain and Argentina. Spain is maneuvering to declare war on Japan and Argentina is still stalling against a war declaration against Germany.

(3) How will Allied plans for the occupation and control of Germany stand the test?

Chairman Connally (D-Tex) of the senate foreign relations committee said that "if the Nazis collapse quickly, people's interest in organizing for peace undoubtedly would be heightened."

GIANT AIRCRAFT MAKES HISTORY

New C-46 Drops 36 Men At A Time In Assault East Of Rhine

BY DON CAMPBELL

Representing the Combined Allied Press

With the First Allied Airborne Army, March 24 (AP)—The C-46 Commando, giant new troop carrying aircraft, made history over Germany today by tumbling first airborne army paratroops from both sides at once.

The new drop technique, used for the first time in the co-ordinated Allied assault east of the Rhine, revolutionizes airborne operations by doubling the fire and fighting power each transport plane can take into battle.

On D-Day, in southern France and at Arnhem, 18 paratroops dropped from one door of each C-47 carrier. Today 36 battle-hardened sky men fell from two doors of each C-46.

The American-produced super-transport has a range of 1,800 miles which it flies at more than 250 mph. It is fitted with radar and can carry almost four tons.

Twin engines give it 4,000 horsepower. A further development is a four-bladed propeller instead of the usual three.

They say the C-46 is a hony. I've seen it take off, cruise and land. It glides effortlessly and smoothly through the air despite its stumpy design caused by the great accommodation capacity.

SPAIN BACKS UP KICKS TO TOKYO

Diplomats Abroad Will No Longer Represent Nippon Interests

BY CHARLES FOLTZ

Madrid, March 24 (AP)—Spain, backing up her stern protest over the bayonetting of Spanish civilians by Japanese fleeing Manila, announced today that all Spanish diplomatic missions abroad had been ordered to cease representing Japanese interests.

The Japanese news agency Domesi quoted Sadao Iguchi, spokesman of the board of information, in a Tokyo broadcast, as "categorically" denying that Japanese troops had committed atrocities against Spaniards in the Philippines.

The government's announcement, which came as the new U. S. ambassador, Norman Armour, presented his credentials to Generalissimo Franco, said Spain also had dispatched an "energetic demand for satisfaction" to the Tokyo government for the attacks on the Spanish nationals, which it termed "premeditated murder." A note protesting the attacks was sent to the Japanese government.

The combined amphibious operation, which is much like Omaha beach in Normandy on a modified scale, went off perfectly with the seamen and infantrymen working together as if they had been doing this sort of thing all their lives.

The Rhine's nothing but a creek," snorted Lt. John Worthen, of Wichita Falls, Tex., as our LCVPs crunched on the river's far side in the early morning light. With Adm. Mitscher's Carrier Task Force Off Japan, March 20 (Delayed) (AP)—Latest pilot reports, still incomplete, indicate that 53 ships were sunk or damaged in Vice Adm. Marc A. Mitscher's smashing carrier plane assaults on the Japanese fleet and homeland March 18 and 19.

Figures compiled today list eight naval auxiliaries and merchant ships as sunk, 12 probably destroyed and 16 damaged. These were in addition to the 17 warships previously listed as damaged by pilots.

All this damage was inflicted despite attempts of the Imperial fleet and air force to flee from the might of American naval forces.

BY DEAN SCHEDLER

Manila, Sunday, March 25 (AP)—American troops clamped down on Baguio, Philippine summer capital and pre-war outlet for one of the world's richest gold producing regions.

The 33rd Division doughboys, closing in from two directions on the scenic mountain city of 25,000 normal population, were sealing the Japanese off into the wild Kallinga "head hunting" country.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Saturday communiqué announced the fall of Naguilian, moving up the one force of Yanks, moving up the northwest, had captured Naguilian town and airport. Naguilian is some 12 air miles from the Baguio city limits.

Other 33rd troops were some eight miles southwest of the city limits on the Kennon road, along which they have been fighting for days.

The only escape route left for Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita's Japanese garrison, which may include Naguilian himself, was by the unfinished Bontoc road and jungle trails through the wild Kallinga country.

MacArthur reported that the 25th and 32nd Divisions also advancing in northern Luzon's mountains east of Baguio, had further reduced Japanese positions near Batac Pass and Santa Fe. The pass is the gateway to the Cagayan valley, leading to the northern part of Apayao. It was here the Japanese started their Philippine invasion in 1941.

Passage came on a roll call vote of 256 to 16, after a Republican-backed drive to lop several hundred million dollars from the big money bag down.

Singer Al Jolson Weds Actress, 21, His Fourth Bride

Palm Springs, Calif., March 24 (AP)—Actor Al Jolson informed friends here tonight that he and Miss Edele Galbraith, 21-year-old film actress, motored to the small Arizona town of Quartzsite this afternoon and were married by a Justice of the peace.

The 36-year-old singer and his bride were tendered a cocktail party by friends upon their return to the hotel where Jolson has been staying while recuperating from a recent operation.

At Little Rock, Ark., the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Galbraith, said the newlyweds telephoned them tonight and said they planned to honeymoon in New York and make their home in California.

Mrs. Jolson, a native of Little Rock, met Jolson last July while he was entertaining at the Army and Navy General hospital at Hot Springs, Ark., where she was working as an X-ray technician.

It is Jolson's fourth marriage. His former marriages to Alma Osborne Carlton, Ethel Delmar and Ruby Keeler ended in divorce.

Carrier Task Force Extends Its Attack On Japan To 4 Days

U. S. Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Guam, Sunday, March 25 (AP)—Vice Adm. Marc A. Mitscher's carrier task force extended its attacks, begun March 18 on southern Japan, through four straight days, the Navy disclosed today. Then it sent carrier raids Friday and Saturday against the Ryukyu Islands despite bad weather.

Battleships also shelled coastal objectives.

The communiqué said a heavy toll of Japanese planes was taken during the continuing raids on southern Japan March 20 and 21 which took the Kyushu, Shikoku and Honshu Islands.

During the attacks, a destroyer of the task force was seriously damaged and a heavy warship suffered some damage.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, who had previously disclosed that 17 enemy warships were crippled and more than 700 enemy planes destroyed or damaged in the raid on southern Japan, said the March 21 action was so intense that in one phase alone 50 enemy aircraft were downed at a cost of three American fighters.

In the Friday-Saturday assaults in the Ryukyus, the targets included the big naval and air base of Okinawa, Minami Daito to the east of Okinawa and Kerama to the west.

The city ordinance banning parking between 2 a. m. and 7 a. m. is to assure that the streets are clear for snow removal operations. The need for continuing enforcement of the ordinance, although the snow has gone, is because the streets must be cleared of cars to permit operation of the city's new power street sweeper.

The all-night parking ban ends April 1. Whether the council will amend the ordinance to make it apply also through the summer months has not yet been discussed by the council.

Big Push Begun To Crush Nazis

miles from Berlin the troops of Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery were told by the 21st army group commander that "The enemy is driven into a corner."

"It will be interesting to see how much longer the enemy can stand it; the complete and decisive defeat of the Germans is certain," declared Montgomery.

The long-rested British Second Army, out of action since last September, opened the attack by crossing on the north flank at 8 p. m. last night. An hour later waves began moving across on the south flank.

The Third, exploiting to the hills surprise crossing between Worms and Mainz, bridged the river with pontoons and poured tanks across onto the mid-German plain—natural avenue to Berlin, 262 miles in front of Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's north wing.

Frankfurt Menaced

From its bridgehead, disclosed to be four miles deep and more than eight miles wide, the Third was menacing the industrial cities of Frankfurt, population 546,649, and Darmstadt, population 115,000, some 15 miles south of Frankfurt.

The Third was 17 miles from Frankfurt and only seven from Darmstadt after capturing four east-bank towns. Berlin said the famed Fourth armored "break-through" division was in the push, in which Patton used naval landing craft just as was done to the north.

The U. S. First army, between the Third and the four Allied armies storming the Ruhr, was spearheading southward along the Rhine's east bank after shattering the Wied River line and was also ready now to turn its power northward to pinch off the Ruhr.

The Ruhr, arsenal of German military power, was already a land of death and destruction from one of the greatest aerial onslaughts in history.

Churchill Looks On

Montgomery declared the flower of four German armies already had been destroyed west of the Rhine.

Prime Minister Churchill, who was at Montgomery's headquarters for the start of the drive, declared that "Once the river line is pierced and the crust of German resistance is broken, the decisive victory in Europe will be near."

Eisenhower, unmasking a German secret order to execute captured Allied airborne troopers, who came here to ride after the racing ban in the United States, today was suspended for the remainder of the meeting by the stewards at the Hipodromo De Las Americas racetrack. The meeting has two months to run.

MEADE SUSPENDED

Mexico City, March 24 (AP)—Don Meade, American jockey who came here to ride after the racing ban in the United States, today was suspended for the remainder of the meeting by the stewards at the Hipodromo De Las Americas racetrack. The meeting has two months to run.

The first intimation to Germany's 35 waiting divisions that the decisive hour was at hand came Friday night when Montgomery's big guns, wheeled up to the very edge of the Rhine, opened up with a barrage which rocked the countryside for miles.

Then behind a 65-mile smoke screen so impenetrable that even the Allies had to use tracer bullets and powerful searchlights to mark a path, the first assault waves began to cross.

They moved in alligators and water buffalos—the sea-going craft common to the Pacific—in tank and infantry landing craft with landing ramps, manned by navy men especially trained on the Maas in secret for a naval operation never before carried out so far from the sea.

Commandos Enter Ruins

There were LCM's capable of hauling a Sherman tank or 60 men, and LCVP's with the capacity of 35 men or a bulldozer.

Tough commandos crossed and crouched on the river's east bank while less than a mile ahead RAF night bombers plastered Wesel.

Then they stormed into the flaming ruins, killing crack Nazi paratroopers with grenade and bayonet.

South of Wesel, the U. S. Ninth army of Lt. Gen. William H. Simpson plowed across into the Ruhr, advanced from three to four miles on a nine-mile front and overran a number of towns.

Engineers came right behind the troops and began the construction of pontoon bridges to keep the long lines of waiting troops and the mountains of supplies flowing across the Rhine.

On the north flank, highlanders linked two landings and surrounded Rees, 12 miles northwest of Wesel, then fought into its streets.

The Allies were striking for ideal tank fighting country now that the thaws are past and a blazing spring sun is hardening the ground.

CEILINGS PUT ON HAY PRICES

Previously Only Alfalfa Was Under OPA Control

Nationwide dollars-and-cents ceiling prices on all types of hay, at all levels of distribution, have been established by the Office of Price Administration, Lawrence L. Farrell, District Director, announced. Previously, only alfalfa hay was under price control.

Effective May 1st, ceiling prices on unbale hay in the Upper Peninsula will be as follows:

Alfalfa $21.00; clover and timothy $19.00; quack-grass $14.50.

These prices will remain in effect through October 31st.

Wherever an Official Federal or State Certificate of Grade has been issued on a lot of hay, the above base prices may be increased by a producer as follows:

$2.00 per ton if the hay grades U. S. No. 1; $1.50 per ton if the hay grades U. S. No. 2, leafy; $1.00 per ton if the hay grades U. S. No. 2, green.

Carload dealers are allowed a $2 per ton mark-up over the maximum prices they may lawfully pay a producer or dealer from whom they buy, plus transportation costs actually incurred. A total of no more than one dealer's mark-up may be added in any one city in which the hay moves, OPA said. No more than $4 per ton mark-up may be added as a total of all dealer's mark-ups, on carload sales. However, an additional $2 dealer mark-up is permitted where hay has been warehoused and resold in less-than-carload lots to any one other than feeder. This is to permit a dealer to supply a small retailer, OPA explained.

Baled hay is priced $5 per ton higher than loose hay, if it sold single-compressed. Double-compressed baled hay is priced at $7 per ton higher than loose hay.

Current prices for baled timothy and clover hay on the farm in the Upper Peninsula are reported to be from $32 to $36 per ton. This new hay regulation reduces these prices by $10 to $15 per ton. The prices as established by the new regulation represent parity prices as required by Congress and are somewhat higher than those prevailing in previous "boom" per-

EASTER SEALS SALE TO BEGIN

Funds Will Be Used To Assist Crippled Children

Easter seals will be mailed to citizens of Delta county this week, each seal intended to bring the community a little closer to the goal of giving every crippled child a chance for a useful life.

In the entire nation, 800 million seals will be mailed, according to James Degnan, seal sale chairman, who pointed out that the seal sale is a principal means of raising funds of the local state, and national societies for crippled children.

The design this year is of particular interest because it is the first winner in the annual Michael Dowling memorial award contest. The design was made by Barbara Bageman of South Pasadena, California.

"Because of the attractive Easter egg colors of magenta, purple, and blue, the seals will make a pleasing addition to all stationery sent out during the Easter season," Mr. Degnan said. "Not only will they be an attractive decoration for Easter mail, but they will also be evidence of having supported a complete program to give handicapped children a chance to lead a normal life."

This general program, according to Mr. Degnan, includes support of all public and private activities which aim to bring about discovery of crippled children, physical correction, education, recreational opportunity, job training, and financial employment.

Iods in the Peninsula, Mr. Farrell said.

A Thankless Job

THE job of being just a plain, mill-run state senator may have its compensations, but just why an intelligent member of Michigan's upper house, possessed of all of his faculties, will accept membership on the finance committee of that body, is more than a little difficult for the ordinary, plain citizen to understand.

The senate finance committee is the body that is, this year, supposed to subtract some $94,000,000 from nothing and still have ninety-four million left in the state kitty. In spite of the impossibility of the task they face, the senate finance committee, usually encompass in its membership some of the most solid and substantial citizens of Michigan who happen to be serving in the state senate. Some of the members of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce were privileged to glimpse some of the problems of this committee when the men who constitute this important body visited in Escanaba on Friday night.

Stripped of all the camouflage and in spite of the loose talk of a lot of down-state municipal officers, the actual figures show that the state of Michigan, after discharging all of its legislative and otherwise legal obligations, closed exits last fiscal year with a surplus of some $4,000,000—no $28,000,000 as has been so frequently claimed.

The estimated revenues of the state, from all sources, for the coming fiscal year will be around $150,000,000. The estimated regular operational expenditures of state government, for all regular purposes, including payrolls, for the same period is also about $150,000,000 or about identical with estimated income.

In addition to this the finance committee faces demands for an additional $94,000,000 to meet such necessary functions as welfare, additional school aid, conservation, public health, public safety and a thousand and one other equally necessary purposes.

And members of this committee receive $3 a day for their services.

Easter Seals

THE annual Easter Seal sale will be launched in Delta county this week to raise funds to finance a program for the care and education of crippled children in our community and nation.

At this season it is good to remind ourselves that helping others to help themselves is our American way of doing things, and that the Easter seal is a convenient symbol of that belief. We welcome the reminder that there still lives in this war-torn world kindness and generosity, and the will to protect those who cannot help themselves.

Generous public support of the sale of Easter Seals will help to restore many physically handicapped to productive capacity. It is an investment that everyone can afford to make.

An Empty Threat

THE Franco government is working its propaganda bureau overtime nowadays in a last-minute effort to win the friendship of the Allied nations, now that the defeat of the Axis is imminent.

Not many months ago, Spain's Fascist dictator predicted the Axis powers would be victorious in this war and he even went so far as to express the opinion that it would be a good thing for the world. Several days ago, however, the Madrid radio broadcast that the Nazis were bound to lose. Berlin objected to the forecast, and a retraction was made, all of which indicates that the Spanish government still takes its orders from Hitler.

But with more smashing victories by the Allies, the Franco government announced this week it would probably go to war with Japan because of the "premeditated murders" of Spanish nationals in Manila prior to the Filipino capital's liberation by General MacArthur's troops.

If Dictator Franco declares war on Japan it will be an empty gesture designed merely for the purpose of winning our sympathy. He owes his rise to power in Spain chiefly to the assistance given by Hitler and Mussolini. He is a Facist through and through, and his past acts should not be forgotten. As a result of the bloody civil war he fomented, Spain is destitute and impotent from a military standpoint. Franco's declaration of war against Japan would bring a big laugh even in Tokyo, for Spain is without the means of carrying out any threat of this kind.

World Events Analyzed

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force—The man on whom falls the heaviest responsibility for the conduct of the war in Europe, with its myriad complications, is General Dwight David Eisenhower.

Forsosa had one great moment in history. In the 17th century it produced an admiral, Koxinga, who expelled the Dutch from the island and was preparing to attack the Spanish in the Philippines when he died at 39. The Chinese then ruled it til it became the first Japanese conquest. Its loss will mark their end as a great power.

From the farthest position on the front line, the chain of command runs back to this man's desk in a quiet, unlettered office. Various problems requiring decisions are filtered out as they pass back, so that only the most momentous questions finally reach the 54 year old five-star general. The weight of his responsibility has aged him visibly in the nearly three years he has carried it, first in Africa, then in Italy, and now in France and Germany.

When subordinates put a knotty question up to him, he has a habit of hesitating a moment and biting his lower lip in concentration. "Now, I'm not trying to buck your question," he says. And then, when he has thought it out, he gives his answer.

AVOIDS SOCIAL LIFE

Inevitably, a certain remoteness surrounds this man. His concentration on the objective before him is necessarily so intense. Not because he wanted to, since he is by nature a friendly human being, but because it seemed the only choice, he has cut himself off from all social life. This includes military banqueting, which is part of the function of higher officers in a foreign country, as well as mingling with the rich and aristocratic French, who court some high-ranking American officers.

Eisenhower's forehead is more lined than it was three years ago. He is perhaps more bald, with only graying wisps of sandy hair on the top of his high-domed head. His expression is ordinarily serious and preoccupied except when a warm smile lights his face.

The impression he makes on most visitors is one of solid, almost solemn integrity. It is in the way he sits, with his massive hands locked together on the desk before him. It is in the way he speaks about the course of the war.

It is hardly worth while to work ourselves into a high dudgeon over this bit of exhibitionism on the part of less than 50 addle-brained Americans. Such fellows are probably less detrimental to the war effort in the Germfask camp than would be in the army or in a war plant.

But when these few indolent and insubordinate "martyrs" attract national publicity—and how they love it—it is entirely understandable that the gorging of every American in uniform should rise and every patriotic American at home should reel red. At such a time it is well to remember that the great majority of real conscientious objectors, who have deep and long standing convictions, have humbly accepted mental and arduous work, some of which has been invaluable in wartime.

Though the great majority of Americans may not understand the logic of the convictions which prohibit these objectors from participating in the defense of the human rights and human freedoms which most religions teach, and which these objectors and their families enjoy, we must still respect those who are willing to perform other useful wartime tasks assigned to them.

Eisenhower has tried to fix a firm policy that there shall be no censorship or criticism of operations in his theater. Yet he bitterly resented the criticism of Allied policy toward the civilian population in Sicily, since he thought that, under the circumstances, the attacks were unfair.

Likewise, he resented the criticism of the "Darlano Deal" that followed the North African invasion. He feels that this, too, was unfair in the light of circumstances which made some such negotiations necessary.

Both FRIENDLY AND STERN—

He can be mild and friendly, but he also can be stern. Once, when he was living in the apple orchards of Normandy, a U. S. labor union delegation came to see him. They began to talk about reconversion. Mild-mannered General Ike let them have it. He told them in no uncertain terms that, as he saw it, their duty was to stop talking about reconversion and stay on the job until it was finished.

No sooner is this brain child exposed to the cruel light of day than they bundle it up and mail it to the editor. When the editor unwraps the swaddling clothes he often has a bad day afterward trying to forget the horror that was sprung on him without warning.

ALL ALIKE—Editors, whether of the newspaper or magazine variety, are equally allergic to poems and poets. This is largely due to the unusually rarified atmosphere the average poet seems to breathe and in which he apparently has ability to spell even the more common words. And punctuation marks are something most of these poets seem never to have become acquainted with.

Without the rudimentary equipment for expressing themselves in writing they nevertheless believe they are capable of touching off a masterpiece of poesy if they put their mind to it. Inspiration seems to strike them like lightning, and in a dazed condition of shock they dash off what they fondly construe as a poem.

It is the subject he takes up frequently with his commanders. And when cases involving serious insubordination finally come to him for review, he gives them long and painstaking study.

Besides if we left it up to the men, they'd make the law so just slim, glamorous girls like Betty Grable and Ann Sheridan could wear them. Why should such girls be the privileged few? We want all women to wear them.

Gracie Allen Says

Well, now it looks like that long-standing argument about women's slacks has finally become official. The war labor board and the members of Congress are arguing about whether they are essential or not.

It seems the situation in slacks is becoming too tight for comfort. Well, that's something that could happen to anyone, Anyway, ladies, I think we ought to keep an eye on this situation.

Personally, I don't think men are to be trusted when it comes to making laws on women's clothes. The best of them have an ax to grind or a charge account to cut.

Besides if we left it up to the men, they'd make the law so just slim, glamorous girls like Betty Grable and Ann Sheridan could wear them. Why should such girls be the privileged few? We want all women to wear them.

INTO THE PAST

10 Years Ago—1935

POEMS ARE MADE—There is something in the budding branch and the warming zephyrs that turns the equally warm and budding poet's thoughts to writing verses about spring. Some of these verses reach an all-time high. Others fall to the depths.

Newspaper people are forever amazed at the phenomena of the poetic mind. Poetic verses come pouring in at this season of the year accompanied by letters in which the poet exhibits his inability to spell even the more common words. And punctuation marks are something most of these poets seem never to have become acquainted with.

Without the rudimentary equipment for expressing themselves in writing they nevertheless believe they are capable of touching off a masterpiece of poesy if they put their mind to it. Inspiration seems to strike them like lightning, and in a dazed condition of shock they dash off what they fondly construe as a poem.

No sooner is this brain child exposed to the cruel light of day than they bundle it up and mail it to the editor. When the editor unwraps the swaddling clothes he often has a bad day afterward trying to forget the horror that was sprung on him without warning.

ALL ALIKE—Editors, whether of the newspaper or magazine variety, are equally allergic to poems and poets. This is largely due to the unusually rarified atmosphere the average poet seems to breathe and in which he apparently has ability to spell even the more common words. And punctuation marks are something most of these poets seem never to have become acquainted with.

Strickland Gillilan, nationally-known humorist, writer and poet, illustrated this point with a story he told last winter when he was in Escanaba to speak to Town Hall.

He had an idea for poem, set it down in verse and then strolled into the office of the editor of Good Housekeeping magazine. Strickland's announcement that he was going to write a poem and that was greeted by the editor with as much enthusiasm as if Strick had said he was going to uncover a hooded King cobra.

This reaction of the editor came even though he knew Strick personally and had bought some of his poems in the past. Supplied with paper and pencil, Strick dashed off his little memorized gem—and because it took no more than a few minutes the editor was impressed. And because Strick didn't hang around to gloat over himself and waste the editor's time, he bought it.

FLOWERY STUFF—What editors fear most of all is their own inadequacy. Who are they to say that a poem is good or just lousy? Seldom do they have confidence enough to go by the time-tested formula of accepting or rejecting a poem because they like it or do not like it. They would do the same with a work of prose, or a picture—but poems! Who knows, there may be some quality in the rhyming word that escapes their judgement. What they turn down today may be printed in an anthology next year.

The editor is not to blame. The poet is not to blame. The condition has existed from the time some ancient minstrel first coupled "June" and "moon" in only lovely line—and then kept repeating it until he became a success in a Neanderthal version of Tin Pan Alley.

Answer: You're right; that was a faulty reference. However, the story of Jonah and the whale is in the New Testament, too. See Matthew 12:40.

Phoenix: What does the word "dollar" mean in the nursery rhyme: "A dollar a dollar, a ten o'clock scholar"?—G. F.

Answer: Apparently it is not a real word, but is one of the non-sense rhyming words found all through Mother Goose, as: Hey diddly diddly; hickey, pickety, Hick-a-more, Hick-a-more; needle, needle, dumpling, etc.

Geography, it's wonderful! S. L. S., of Temple, sends this headline from the Southside Progress, of Arizona's State Teachers College: "3 Mortensen Boys in Foreign Service: In Italy, in Texas, in California."

Answer: You're right; that was a faulty reference. However, the story of Jonah and the whale is in the New Testament, too. See Matthew 12:40.

8 PORTS WILL SHIP IRON ORE

Port Arthur Dock Will Handle Cargoes From Steep Rock Mine

For the first time in history eight ports will ship iron ore from the active Lake Superior iron ranges in the United States and Canada during the coming shipping season.

The newest iron ore shipping port is Port Arthur, Ont., which ore dock is now in a well advanced stage of construction and will be ready to handle its initial tonnage some time during the approaching season of navigation. The new dock facilities were stimulated by the opening up of the Steep Rock iron mine near Attkokan, Ont., a 142-mile rail haul to Port Arthur.

Michipicoten Harbour, Ont., is located about 100 miles west of Sault Ste. Marie. Now equipped with modern dock facilities this port is a regular shipper of scattered iron ore each season of navigation. The Michipicoten iron range, which lies inland from the port, is the oldest productive iron range in Ontario and has the largest shipments to date of any of the known ranges of Ontario. The range was first opened up for gold in 1897, but soon became important for iron ore.

In Minnesota, the Mesabi iron range ships to three ports, Duluth, Two Harbors and Superior, an approximate 100-mile haul in each instance. This is the heaviest transportation lane of iron ore in the world. The Vermilion range iron ore is hauled to Two Harbors, and the Cuyuna iron range manganese and iron ore are shipped 110 miles to the Superior ore docks.

The Gogebic iron range, which maintains iron ore production largely from Michigan, also mines an appreciable tonnage from its western extension into Wisconsin, which iron ore is hauled to the ore port of Ashland, Wis., for lake shipment east. The rail haul from this range is 40 miles from Ironwood to Ashland. The Gogebic range commenced shipments in 1883 from the Colby iron mine, the first mine to ship from this range.

The Menominee iron range, similar to the ore transportation conditions on other ranges, is served by a single port, which is Escanaba, only port handling ore on Lake Michigan. All other ports, dealing with ore, front on Lake Superior.

The ore port of Marquette is the oldest shipping point for iron ore in the Lake Superior region, and is the natural outlet for iron ore shipments from the Marquette iron range, 14 miles distant. With the opening of the first ship canal in 1855 at Sault Ste. Marie, the Marquette range commenced to ship iron ore regularly some years in advance of any other lake port.

Tractor School Starts Tuesday

A tractor maintenance school for the benefit of younger farmers of Delta County will hold its first meeting at 8 o'clock Tuesday night at the court house, it was announced yesterday by E. A. Wenner, county agricultural agent.

Wenner said it is planned to complete the course before the heavy work starts on the farms this spring, and he urged those who had enrolled to attend because of the value of the instruction they will receive.

Discussion Plan Brings Hope Of Ending Strike

The Delta county road commission yesterday afternoon accepted a proposal for resuming operations and settlement of pending issues in the county road strike, and the plan is to be recommended to the union by its grievance committee. Should the union membership accept the plan it would mean the end of the work stoppage and the start of discussions to settle issues in dispute.

The plan of action toward settling the dispute and bring the 20-day-old walkout to an end was proposed by John Luecke, Escanaba, conciliator for the U. S. Department of Labor, whose services had been requested by the county board of supervisors at its Friday meeting. Luecke agreed to assist in any way that he could while in Escanaba, but said that it would be necessary for him to be out of Escanaba most of this week.

Luecke's proposal for resuming operations and settling the issues in dispute between the commission and the union is as follows:

1. Immediately upon acceptance of this proposal arrangements will be made for a meeting of the parties at which will be taken up the

Buffalo Buffalo Idaho Ranchers

Idaho Falls, Idaho (AP) — Two huge buffaloes graze contentedly with cattle at the Jay Eddie ranch on Medicine Lodge creek, but they had to cross the continental divide to reach the spot.

The animals traveled approximately 75 miles through rugged country. What caused them to leave buffalo herds in the Horse Prairie creek region in Montana and travel to the Eddie ranch has not been determined.

Not for nearly 100 years have buffaloes been common on Medicine Lodge creek, but the two stray creatures refuse to be driven away or corralled.

Wenner said it is planned to complete the course before the heavy work starts on the farms this spring, and he urged those who had enrolled to attend because of the value of the instruction they will receive.

PLAN OPENING OF LIGHTHOUSE

Minneapolis Shoal Crew Ordered To Be Ready Here Wednesday

The U. S. Coast Guard is making preparations for the opening of Escanaba harbor by ice breaker, and the transportation of the Minneapolis Shoal lighthouse crew from Escanaba to the light Wednesday. To last night there was no official information when the ice breaker would be here.

Anton M. Jessen, lightkeeper at Minneapolis Shoal, said yesterday that he had been advised by the district Coast Guard office at Cleveland to board a tender here Wednesday for transportation to the lighthouse.

Other members of the Minneapolis Shoal lighthouse crew are William O'Hara, first assistant, Peter B. Scott, second assistant, and MM/c George Treiber of the Coast Guard station at Plum Island. Treiber has been assigned to serve at the lighthouse during the navigation season.

It has been anticipated daily that the Coast Guard ice breaker Mackinaw would come to Escanaba to open the harbor. Several days ago the Cleveland office of the Coast Guard announced that an ice breaker was to be here to open the harbor within a few days, and warned ice fishermen to remove their nets.

Minneapolis Shoal light is located about 12 miles south of Escanaba and is the most important aid to navigation in the northern Green bay area.

A motion was made, seconded and carried that the organization's secretary write to this district's congressman.

Other members on the program included a song, "Irish Lullaby," by Betty McNaughton, accompanied by Shirley Bruce; a reading "The Pirate of Don Durke of Dow Dee" by Janice Bergman; and a piano solo, "Swaying Daffodils," by Alice Louise Terens.

Food Stores Must Recalculate Their Ceiling Prices

Lawrence L. Farrell, District Director of the Office of Price Administration, reminds all retailers of food in the Upper Peninsula that they must re-calculate their ceiling prices if their sales for the year 1944, have been increased or decreased to the point where their group store classification is affected. This must be done by the opening of business Thursday, March 29, by all retailers now operating under MPR 335, 336, 422 and 423.

Notices of the change were mailed to all retailers from the district office under date of March 10th, and Mr. Farrell emphasizes the urgent need for cooperation on the part of the merchants.

The following information may be of help in figuring total sales:

Take your total sales for the calendar year 1944. Do not include sales made by a restaurant operated in conjunction with your store. If you operate a department store and food does not represent the largest part of your sales you should use your food sales only in determining your gross sales.

To determine your group in certain special cases—see the regulation.

Old Orchard Farm

43 Little Porkers Are Now Running Around

FREE LUNCH—Mama Pig has rich milk on tap all the time at Old Orchard farm, where more than forty of the little porkers recently arrived to set a new record at the Daily Press experimental station.

Forty-three little porkers—count 'em, 43—constitutes the final count of the spring pig crop, out at Old Orchard farm in Flat Rock. Five brood sows this spring produced a total of 51 little pigs and out of that total 43 have now reached the age of at least one week and can now be considered as safely launched on the road to maturity.

The season's record received a heavy jolt when five from the first litter were lost when they arrived on a near zero night, before the heat was turned on in the hog house. From the remaining four litters, only three little weaklings failed to survive and if ever there was a scene of family contention it is offered these days in the littering pens of Old Orchard's modern hog house. Five mothers, of frequent occurrence in the various pens.

Some time this week all of the little pigs in the farm's spring crop will be given their first taste of real sunshine, when they are released from their pens, to exercise in the outside air with their mothers. Each pen has a separate runway, so that the various families will not "mix" while they are absorbing vitamins from the sun and getting the exercise, so necessary to their growth and well being.

Now that the spring pig crop is in the record as one of the early jobs that is out of the way, interest will next be centered in the sheep shed where the spring crop of lambs should begin making an appearance most any time now. But unless those young ewes start doing their duty pretty soon Old Orchard's lambing activity is going to run into the field work season.

With all of the snow gone from the fields and the excess water rapidly draining off, Old Orchard's crew is champing at the bit and raring to get at the field work. The annual breakup this spring came quickly but without doing a great deal of damage, such as usually accompanies the sudden melting of a winter's accumulation of snow. There was very little frost in the ground and most of the moisture soaked into the soil and it was only after the soil was saturated that any great "run off" occurred.

Old Orchard finished all of its plowing last fall and field work can be started, just as soon as equipment can get on the fields, but it is useless to make a start until the soft spots have drained out and the soil is ready for working.

May Sow Oats Soon

Old Orchard will this spring change the breed of the 20 acres of oats that will be sowed. For the past several seasons Old Orchard has stuck to Michigan Forty-four oats, but so many boosters have developed for the Vickland variety that the farm manager has purchased new seed and will try out these new oats this year. All of the 20 acres to be sowed to oats this spring will be seeded down with red clover, to provide both hay and pasture in 1946.

If present weather conditions continue, in spite of the calendar, Old Orchard's manager hopes to start sowing oats sometime next week. And also in spite of the calendar, if the soil can be properly prepared, at least some of this year's corn crop, will be planted earlier than ever before. It has been a "must" out at Old Orchard to get the corn in the ground by May 10. With the earliest break-

With all of the snow gone from the fields and the excess water rapidly draining off, Old Orchard's crew is champing at the bit and raring to get at the field work. The annual breakup this spring came quickly but without doing a great deal of damage, such as usually accompanies the sudden melting of a winter's accumulation of snow. Old Orchard finished all of its plowing last fall and field work can be started, just as soon as equipment can get on the fields, but it is useless to make a start until the soft spots have drained out and the soil is ready for working.

Early Escanaba Days

Killian-Corcoran Wedding Was Social Event

BY JOHN P. NORTON

Escanaba was all agog when the big social event of the fall of 1884, marked the marriage of the town's most popular school teacher, Miss Ella Killian, to James J. Corcoran, a well known North Western locomotive engineer. The bride of that early day, who had served for several years as a teacher in the public schools, is living today at her home 620 South Eighth street, although she has been seriously ill for many months. The marriage ceremony was performed on Thursday morning, Sept. 18, 1884 by Rev. Father Butterman, pastor of St. Joseph's church before a large audience of relatives and friends who packed the church to its capacity.

Lists Wedding Gifts

Even Col. John C. VanDuzer, publisher of the Escanaba Iron Port, who ordinarily gave the barest mention to wedding festivities, displayed his interest in this affair by not only running an account of the wedding on the first page of his newspaper, but broke a rule of years, by publishing a complete list of the wedding gifts received by the happy couple on the occasion of their marriage.

In his issue of the week preceding the wedding, he hinted at his more cordial attitude toward this particular marriage, by carrying the following item: "The bans of marriage have been cried in St. Joseph's and on Thursday next, Miss Ella Killian, long a teacher in our schools and one of our town's very 'best girls' will be united in the 'Holy estate' to James J. Corcoran. The Iron Port casts its shoe, filled with rice, and bestows its blessing. May all the joys of life be theirs and a 'home in glory,' after."

In the Iron Port of Sept. 20, 1884 the following account of the wedding appeared: "Married at St. Joseph's church in this city, Thursday morning, Sept. 18, by the pastor, Rev. E. Butterman, James J. Corcoran and Ella, eldest daughter of T. Killian, Esq., both of this city. The church was crowded with friends of the parties, desirous to testify their good wishes by their presence. The fair bride was more charming than ever in her wedding bravery and the groom looked, as well he might, the proudest and happiest man within the four seas.

Following is the list, as complete as we could get it, of the wedding gifts received by the happy couple on the occasion of their marriage: China tea set, Messrs. J. M. Rooney, William and Thomas Daley, William Hamm and T. J. Appleton; rocker, Mr. and Mrs. E. Corcoran, Oshkosh; Willow chair, Miss Annie Corcoran; Silver water pitcher, T. Killian; rocker, Miss AWARDED BRONZE STAR MEDAL — David M. Sly, Seaman First Class, U. S. N. R., son of Mrs. D. J. Sly, 1002 Superior avenue, Gladstone, has been awarded the Bronze Star Medal for heroism in action against the enemy.

He is pictured receiving the award.

The award was made by T. C. Kinkaid, Vice Admiral, U. S. Navy, Commander 7th Fleet and was accompanied by a citation:

"For distinguishing himself by heroic and meritorious service in action against the enemy. During patrols he performed his duties with efficiency and distinction and was of great assistance to his Commanding Officer in sinking and damaging a very large amount of enemy shipping and in performing several special missions which contributed to the success of allied operations. On one occasion he volunteered to go in a rubber boat at night through a treacherous surf to an uncharted enemy-held coast to rescue allied personnel, even though he was warned that if his boat or the ship were discovered, his ship would be forced to depart without him. His utter disregard for his own personal safety and his good seamanship on this occasion, contribute to the rescue. His action throughout these war patrols distinguished him among those performing duties of the same character."

Seaman Sly is a veteran of the Navy having served four years before the United States entered war against Japan.

Unauthorized fires cause a considerable amount of expense and damage each year as the towermen, not knowing that these fires are being watched report their location, and it is then necessary to send equipment and firefighters to the location.

The state fire laws will be strictly enforced as dispatching of men and equipment on wild goose chases is expensive and time consuming and under present war conditions the expense and time spent on unauthorized fires cannot be excused.

WAR PRISONER WRITES HOME

Larry Landwehr Praises
Red Cross For
Aid

Word from S/Sgt. Lawrence R. Landwehr, missing since April 30, 1944 was received in Manistique a few days ago.

The young man, who was with the American Air Force when last heard from, is a prisoner of war and the word received from him was on a post card written in a German prison camp. Harry Blandford was the recipient of the letter.

The note tells that he is well, that he recently met another prisoner who came from this area and incidentally, expresses in a few words an impressive testimonial on behalf of the Red Cross.

Lawrence says: "I met a fellow who lives near us and he was sure was glad to talk about home. The Red Cross has been outfitting us with clothing. I have a new hat and a pair of socks. We are sure thankful for that organization and the way it has given us food, clothing and sports equipment. Things are very easy for us now so you may tell everyone I'm well. Just hold the line awhile."

Sgt. Landwehr, the post card would indicate, is confined in a prison camp for members of the American Air Force.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Landwehr of Route 1, Manistique.

Off The Chest ...

BY JAY ARRELL

Robins have arrived.

For some time now, folks have been arguing about the recent appearance of a bird which some thought to be a robin and others thought to be a pink breasted bird of some other species; but there was no question about the genuineness of that jaunty red breasted summer tourist we saw up on that elm tree near Brault's studio last Sunday morning. It was a robin. We knew he was one long before we saw him. There was no mistaking his voice.

It was such a glad sound—that morning cheerio. There wasn't a great deal of it—just a couple of shrill, flutey notes—but one would have to be weighted down by an awful lot of worry and sorrow not to be heartened by it. The happy little fellow seemed to say "Gee but this is a swell old world, ain't it?"

And we agree with the robin. This is a grand old world! Ask anyone who is not addicted to reading the scareheads in the newspapers or listening to the worry-wort news commentators, what they've got against this world and they will tell you, "Not a thing!"

Can anyone be saddened by the sight of little girls on the sidewalks going through their rope skipping games or little boys, with their marbles?

The trouble with us gloomy guses, who have been sitting around the stove these many months, is that we take ourselves and the narrow sphere in which we live much too seriously. We gripe and grumble about rationing, about taxes, politics, bureaucracy, autocracy, Nazism, Communism and all the other disagreeable problems confronting humanity and sadly tell ourselves that the world will never again be the same. We confess freely that such was our state of mind.

Then we heard and saw our first robin!

Robins singing . . . little girls skipping rope . . . little boys playing marbles . . . Pollyanna stuff, eh?

Not on your life!

Such things speak of happier and better days to come and they will continue to come as long as this old world exists; while the gloom and the mulligrubs, which so many of us people seem to think if our patriotic duty to wear as a mantle, will soon be cracked away among forgotten things.

Just as sure as the grass and trees will soon be green, clean earth turned for gardens, birds nesting and raising families, streams and lakes invite the fishermen and nature lover and flower makers lovely and gay the homes and the countryside — just as sure, though of course, not so soon, will come world peace, the return of our boys and the privilege of living one's own life.

Escanaba was all agog when the big social event of the fall of 1884 marked the marriage of the town's most popular school teacher, Miss Ella Killian, to James J. The bride of that early day, who had served for several years as a teacher in the public schools, is living today at her home, 620 South Eighth street, although she has been seriously ill for many months. The marriage ceremony was performed on Thursday morning, Sept. 18, 1884 by Rev. In the Iron Port of Sept. 20, 1884 the following account of the wedding appeared: "Married at St. Joseph's church in this city, Thursday morning, Sept. 18, by the pastor, Rev. E. Butterman, James J. AWARDED BRONZE STAR MEDAL — David M. Sly, Seaman First Class, U. S. N. R., son of Mrs. D. J. Sly, 1002 Superior avenue, Gladstone, has been awarded the Bronze Star Medal for heroism in action against the enemy.

He is pictured receiving the award.

The award was made by T. C. Kinkaid, Vice Admiral, U. S. Navy, Commander 7th Fleet and was accompanied by a citation:

"For distinguishing himself by heroic and meritorious service in action against the enemy. During — patrols — he performed his duties with efficiency and distinction and was of great assistance to his Commanding Officer in sinking and damaging a very large amount of enemy shipping and in performing several special missions which contributed to the success of allied operations. On one occasion he volunteered to go in a rubber boat at night through a treacherous surf to an uncharted enemy-held coast to rescue — allied personnel, even though he was warned that if his boat or the ship were discovered, his ship would be forced to depart without him. His utter disregard for his own personal safety and his good seamanship on this occasion, contribute to the rescue —. His action throughout these war patrols distinguished him among those performing duties of the same character."

Seaman Sly is a veteran of the Navy having served four years before the United States entered war against Japan.

Unauthorized fires cause a considerable amount of expense and damage each year as the towermen, not knowing that these fires are being watched report their location and it is then necessary to send equipment and firefighters to the location.

WAR PRISONER WRITES HOME

Larry Landwehr Praises
Red Cross For
Aid

Word from S/Sgt. Lawrence R. Landwehr, missing since April 30, 1944 was received in Manistique a few days ago.

The young man, who was with the American Air Force when last heard from, is a prisoner of war and the word received from him was on a post card written in a German prison camp. Harry Blandford was the recipient of the letter.

The note tells that he is well, that he recently met another prisoner who came from this area and incidentally, expresses in a few words an impressive testimonial on behalf of the Red Cross.

Landwehr says: "I met a fellow who lives near us and he sure was glad to talk about home. The Red Cross has been outfitting us with clothing. I have a new hat and a pair of socks. We are sure thankful for that organization and the way it has given us food, clothing and sports equipment. Things are very easy for us now so you may tell everyone I'm well. Just hold the line awhile."

Sgt. Landwehr, the post card would indicate, is confined in a prison camp for members of the American Air Force.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Landwehr of Route 1, Manistique.

Off The Chest ...

BY JAY ARRELL

Robins have arrived.

For some time now, folks have been arguing about the recent appearance of a bird which some thought to be a robin and others thought to be a pink breasted bird of some other species; but there was no question about the genuineness of that jaunty red breasted summer tourist we saw up on that elm tree near Brault's studio last Sunday morning. It was a robin. We knew he was one long before we saw him. There was no mistaking his voice.

It was such a glad sound—that morning cheerio. There wasn't a great deal of it—just a couple of shrill, tatty notes—but one would have to be weighted down by an awful lot of worry and sorrow not to be heartened by it. The happy little fellow seemed to say "Gee but this is a swell old world, I ain't it!"

And we agree with the robin. This is a grand old world! Ask anyone who is not addicted to reading the scareheads in the newspapers or listening to the worry - wort news commentators, what they've got against this world and they will tell you, "Not a thing!"

Can anyone be saddened by the sight of little girls on the sidewalks going through their rope skipping games or little boys, with their marbles?

The trouble with us Gloomy Gusses, who have been sitting around the stove these many months, is that we take ourselves and the narrow sphere in which we live much too seriously. We gripe and grumble about rationing, about taxes, politics, bureaucracy, autobiography, Nazism, Communism and all the other disagreeable problems confronting humanity and sadly tell ourselves that the world will never again be the same. We confess freely that such was our state of mind.

Then we heard and saw our first robin!

Robins singing . . . little girls skipping rope . . . little boys playing marbles . . . Pollyanna stuff, eh?

Not on your life!

Such things speak of happier and better days to come and they will continue to come as long as this old world exists; while the gloom and the mulligrubs, which so many of us people seem to think it our patriotic duty to wear as a mantle, will soon be cracked away among forgotten things.

Just as sure as the grass and trees will soon be green, clean earth turned for gardens, birds nesting and raising families, streams and lakes invite the fishermen and nature lover and flower makers make lovely and gay the homes and the countryside — just as sure, though of course, not so soon, will come world peace, the return of our boys and the privilege of living one's own life.

Then we heard and saw our first robin!

Not on your life!

Such things speak of happier and better days to come and they will continue to come as long as this old world exists; while the gloom and the mulligrubs, which so many of us people seem to think it our patriotic duty to wear as a mantle, will soon be cracked away among forgotten things.

Just as sure as the grass and trees will soon be green, clean earth turned for gardens, birds nesting and raising families, streams and lakes invite the fishermen and nature lover and flower makers make lovely and gay the homes and the countryside — just as sure, though of course, not so soon, will come world peace, the return of our boys and the privilege of living one's own life.

Then we heard and saw our first robin!

Robins singing . . . little girls skipping rope . . . little boys playing marbles . . . Pollyanna stuff, eh?

MICHIGAN WINS PURDUE RELAYS

Redskins Of Miami U. Repeat For College Division Title

By JIM MITCHELL
Lafayette, Ind., March 24 (P)—Michigan's powerful Wolverines and the Redskins of Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, extended their twin domination of the Purdue indoor relays tonight as they successfully defended their university and college division championship in the third annual relay meet.

Michigan, scoring heavily in the distance relay events and displaying its usual tremendous team strength, collected 36½ points for first place in the university division. Miami, placed by its great hurdler, Harold (Whitby) Fisher, rolled up 48 points in the college division for a new team scoring record.

Illinois finished second in the university division with 20 points, and Western Michigan was second to Miami with 25.

Miami's victory was its third in the three-year existence of the meet. Michigan won for the first time last year. Notre Dame was the first university division titleholder.

Other finishers in the university division were: Purdue, 16½; Great Lakes 16; Marquette 10; Minnesota 9; Missouri 8; Notre Dame 6; Drake 6; Indiana 4; Iowa Preflight 4; Wright Field 3, and Ohio State 1. Iowa, Northwestern and Michigan State failed to score.

Behind Miami and Western Michigan in the college division were Cornell of Iowa, Rose Poly 4, and Case 3. Baldwin-Wallace did not score.

REVOLTA NOSED OUT BY NELSON

By FRITZ LITTLEJOHN
Greensboro, N. C., Mar. 24 (P)—Byron Nelson, bidding for his second straight open title and his sixth of the winter golf tour, moved into the lead today at the halfway mark of the $7,500 Greensboro tournament.

The mechanical man of golf fired four-under par 67 for a 36-hole total of 137 and a one stroke lead over Johnny Revolta, the first day leader, who added a 70 to his first round 68.

Five thousand fans swarmed over the Starmount Forest country club course, most of them following Nelson and Revolta. Lord Byron rewarded them with a near perfect round.

Craig Wood, the duration open champion, batted out a 68 to move into the third slot at 140 and insure a three way battle in tomorrow's 36-hole final.

Sam Byrd added a 72 for 142, and Slammin Sam Snead carded a 71 for 143 to wind up in sixth and seventh places.

The leaders included:

17-YEAR-OLDS TO TAKE TESTS

College Training Available To Youths Who Can Qualify

An opportunity for young men 17 years old to qualify for college training at the expense of the Army has been announced by Army officials.

The college training, given under the Army Specialized Training Reserve Program, will be open to eligible young men who successfully complete a special examination to be given at high schools and colleges on April 12, according to Colonel W. Lutz Krigbaum, Commanding Officer of the Wisconsin-Upper Michigan District of the Sixth Service Command.

School officials already have received information about the examination, Colonel Krigbaum said. The test will be open to young men who are high school graduates and those who have completed successfully one term of college work. In order to qualify they must have been born after September 1, 1927 and before September 1, 1928.

Army Pays Expenses

Other requirements are that each young man must be physically fit and able to pass a thorough physical examination; he must be a citizen of the United States; he must have written consent from a parent or guardian approving his request for enlistment in the Enlisted Reserve Corps and for assignment with the ASTRP. Written evidence of high school graduation or a term of college work is required.

Men who successfully complete the examination on April 12 will be sworn into the Enlisted Reserve Corps within the next few months and will be assigned to a college for the term beginning July, August or September. If possible they will be sent to a college or university near their homes, usually within the Sixth Service Command (Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan and northern Indiana.)

The Army furnishes transportation to the college or university, housing, messing, tuition, books, medical care and complete uniforms while the student is attending college. It is estimated that the education received under this program saves parents an average of $1,000.

Students wear the same uniform furnished to soldiers on active duty, with a shoulder patch to indicate the ASTRP. This patch has a design of a lamp and sword in blue on a gold background.

ENSIGN SOLDIER WAR PRISONER

Sgt. Arnold Brannstrom
Writes From Nazi
Camp

Sgt. Arnold J. Brannstrom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Brannstrom, Ensign, who was previously reported missing in action in Germany since December 16, is a prisoner of war in that country, according to a postcard received from him by the parents yesterday.

The message read as follows: "I am fine and well. I hope this finds you the same. You can send food parcels, concentrated foods. See the local Red Cross for information. Take care of yourself and don't worry. Everything will be O. K. Love, Arnold."

Sgt. Brannstrom has been in the service for four years, having enlisted on April 4, 1941. After training at Camp Davis, N. C., he was transferred to Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, arriving there about a week after the Japanese attack.

Serving in Hawaii for eleven months, Sgt. Brannstrom returned to the U. S. and trained at several camps in this country. He went to England in November, 1944, and then to France on December 5. He arrived in Germany December 12, just four days before the Nazis launched their big counter-offensive, during which he became a casualty.

He is a graduate of the Rapid River high school, class of 1939.

Four or 500 years ago, slaves in a rajah's palace in India threw water on a curtain of reeds hung across an opening in a wall and achieved a primitive type of air conditioning.
